

China: a relationship at risk?

Story John Kerin

Add us as a preferred source on Google

Jul 14, 2007 – 10.00am

It's Australia's biggest trading partner but John Howard has pulled back and Beijing has noticed.

China has become Australia's biggest trading partner but a cooling in John Howard's attitude has generated suspicion in Beijing and may pose a threat to a $50 billion-a-year trade relationship.

This article is for subscribers only.

Save over 50% on unlimited access to Australia's leading business news and insights across our digital platforms. Subscribe for $17.35 $7 per week for your first 3 months. Cancel anytime.

SAVE OVER 50% NOW

Already a subscriber? Log in